Dear Amy,

Whether you had turkey, tofurkey or TV dinner, I'm hoping this newsletter finds you relaxed and ready to take the next step in getting better food into your kids' schools.

We are excited to announce that our website now has a menu of licensing options available for screenings of Two Angry Moms. You can host a screening for a small wellness committee, or work with your local theater to hold a special event.

A portion of Two Angry Moms was filmed in Westchester County, New York, home of the fabulous Jacob Burns Film Center. On November 26 (yes, that's this coming Monday!) Two Angry Moms will have its area premiere at the Burns Center.

We've been traveling to some of the pre-release screenings of the movie, speaking with audiences in Dartmouth, MA, Santa Barbara, CA, Weston, CT and Worthington, OH. I've been encouraged by the passion of the many frustrated and yes, angry, parents, teachers and others we've met in all of these places.

The pre-release screenings garnered lots of positive attention, and this is only the beginning. After nearly three years of production, Two Angry Moms is now available. As our distribution expands, we'll gain strength in numbers. My district superintendent, Dr. John Reed, said, in reference to this movement, "Change comes from the extremes. What was extreme 20 years ago is now mainstream today "

ANGRY MOM OF THE MONTH- Beth Loveridge

Beth Loveridge of Port Angeles, Washington was one of the first people to get a pre-release copy of Two Angry Moms. She held several screenings in her community, and here's what's happening as a result:

"I am making GREAT headway here in Port Angeles and the reason is because I have had these (screenings). I have held 4 screenings so far and am planning more. I think it is EXTREMELY IMPORTANT that as many people as possible see this film.

Showing this movie has gotten this issue press coverage in Port Angeles, which has actually hit the radar screen of important folks in Seattle and Olympia. I was just contacted yesterday by the Washington Environmental Council - they are working on legislation to support local foods in schools. They want our support and input. I also received an email yesterday from George Sneller, Director, Child Nutrition Services, Office of the Superintendent (State of Washington). He saw the press coverage and wants to speak with me about working together to make improvements in food offerings for students in our state.

This is huge - I can't believe how much attention we've received in a very short period of time. And the only reason it happened is because of this film! It is absolutely the catalyst! I can't thank you enough for making this film..." - Beth Loveridge, Port Angeles, Washington

FOOD TEES

Whether you love your fruits and veggies, or are fed-up and ready to tell someone, you can express it with a DietDetective.com Food-Tee!

We love these tee shirts because they're cute, simple and subtle, because they promote good, healthy food in a fun way, and because a portion of the proceeds go to helping us bring the Two Angry Moms movie to you! The folks at DietDetective.com share our mission and want to help raise awareness of the impact food has on our children's health.

These tees make great gifts for all types of people-- from foodies to gym rats to hipsters. DietDetective.com Food- Tees are available for Women, Men, Children, Toddlers and Babies. All shirts include FREE SHIPPING (international orders excluded).

There are lots of great designs - each with a bit of attitude and good humor. To order, go to <http://www.dietdetective.com/tshirts/home>
